that individual indebtedness is being discharged to a most wonderful extent, so that when the centest is ended the people will be freer from pecuniary obligations than ever before. This pecuniary obligations than ever before. This is a remarkable phenomenon, and quite in contrast with the condition of our country at the close of the revolutionary war, but the course pursued by the Gevernment has brought it about. Private has been exchanged for public indebtedness. The nation is involved to an enermous amount. Every State, every country, and every town has accumulated debt to an extent before nuheard of. and the Confederate States will come sometime is certain, that it will come soon appears now highly probable, and the effect which such an event will have upon the business of the country cannot but be a matter of deep interest boall. tent before nuheard of.

The fact must greatly influence the future. Taxation will be heavy, continuous, and pressing. It will bear with great force on the masses of the people. Their consumption of wealth, and, of course, their trade, must be restricted. What a man pays in taxes he cannot expend for clothes. Every expenditure must be curtailed to meet the demands of the inevitable tax-gatherer. The result will be, that ordinary consumption will be less, and extraordinary consumption more. Those who pay the laxes must buy less, those who receive the public dividends will be able to buy more; there will be less low puiced, and more high priced. intile dividends will be able to buy more; there will be less low priced, and more high priced goods sold, more luxnries, and fewer necessaries, propertionately, than before the war. The ernsis through which we are now passing is distined, whether fortunately or unfortunately, to assimilate the nation to European civil zation. The great debt which we shall create will probably never be paid, or ever reputing the principal because their current revenues are required to meet the interest, carry on government, and prepare for war in time of peace.

required to useet the interest, carry on government, and prepare for war in time of peace.

Such is our destiny so far as all present appearances indicate the future. But with regard to the currency, that will depend entirely upon what the people have the intelligence to demand, for it is certain that Congress is always ready to do just what the people wish, except to reduce their own pay and privileges.

What, then, would the people have? Once they would have asked for all the paper money that the banks could put in circulation; but the war has wrought great changes in public of frien on two important subjects—slavery and NAPOLEON'S LIFE OF CLESAR. Few of the Paris journals comment on orrface to the Emperor's "History of Ju-lesar," which will be published on the Is March. The Constitutionnel speaks of it is March. The Constitutionnel speaks of it in a style of painful and hamiliating homage. The preface, which is published in the Moniteur, is as follows: Historical truth ought not to be less sacred than religion. It the precepts of faith elevate our soul above the interest of this world, the lessons of history, in their turn, inspire us with the love of the beautiful and the just, with a hatred for everything which is an obstucle to the advancement of the welfare of mankind. Those lessons, to be profitable, require certain conditions. It is necessary that facts should be produced with rigorous exactitude, that political and social changes should be philosophically analyzed, that the piquant attraction of the details of the lives of public men should not distract attention from their political task or throw their providential mission into oblivion.

The historian too often gives us the various phases of history as apontaneous events without diving deeper into anterior facts for their residential and natural deduction; in like manner as the artist who, in reproducing the accidents of nature, devotes himself simply to their picture resque effect without being able in his picture to give their scientific demonstration. The historian ought to be more than a painter; he ought, like the geologist, who explains the phenomena of the globe, to disclose the secret of the transformation of our social world.

But in writing history, what are the means to ascertain the truth? The only way is to follow the rules of logic. Let us take it for granted at once that great results are always due to a great cause, never to a small one; in other words, an The historian too often gives us the varion ause, never to a small one; in other words, societant insignificant in appearance never lever the pre-existing can which has allowed that small incident to achieve which has allowed that small incident to achiev a great result. A spark does not create a great conflagration unless it fulls upon combustible materials accumulated beforehand. Man tesquein confirms this idea: "It is not good formen," he says, "which rules the world "Tiere are general causes, either moral or physical, which act in every unonarchy, elevate in uphold it, or ruin it. All incidents are subjected to these causes, and if the chances of a battle-that is to say, a special cause—has runned the State, there existed a general cause which implied that that that was to purish in a single battle; in fact, the chief inducements absorb a WEDNESDAAT, MARCH 22, 1835. We and our readers have often yielded for brief he de to sanguine hopes, speedily dissipated, of the close of the great rebellion. Therefore we should no doubt all be careful how we permit the temporary successes of our armies to create in our minds nureasonable expectations. Appearances, we must admit, are often decep. tive, and the fortunes of war proverbially vacillating, and yet the signs at this time are too numerous and palpable to allow us to doubt that the belief, evidently common alike to Union men and ribels, as to the rapid and near ap proach of the end of the war, is correct. The spondent articles of the rebel papers in all SUCCESSFUL OPERATION parts of the Southern Confederacy where rebel papers can be published; the hopeless tone of the rebel leaders, even those most prominent and influential in position; the bitterness, the dissatisfaction, the denunciation, and the wranglings that prevail throughout the fast dwindling limits over which the rebel spirit still bolds sway or the shadow of sway; the rebel military desertions occurring continually and increasing daily in number; the perplexed, confused, and occasionally infuriated legislation of the Congress at Richmond; the mad recourse by that body and by the Confederate administration to measures which the whole South from time immemorial has rejected with derision and scorn; the late tremendously triumphant movements of the Federal hosts in all directions; and the obvious certainty, acknowledged and proclaimed by the hi heet and most sensible of the rebels them se ver, that their wegro soldier policy, the last and most deperate of all the rebel expedients, must necessarily prove not only a miserable farure let a fatal one-all these things and very mary more indicate that the war, so far at e t as great confl' ts are concerned. is so n to take its place am ng past but terrible and pever to-be-forgotten things. Notice to all Men Liable to DRAFF in Louisville and Jefferson County.

Security Against the DRAFT!

In Loui ville and Jefferson county there are undreds of men liable to draft whose business elations are such that serving the Government as drafted men, or procuring sate thates at the resent high rates, are able at ende I with peculiar hardships.

We have, after deliberate calculation and areful examination, ecueluded to insure men against the draft ordered for the 15th of Febtuary (now temporarily deferred), and have completed our arrangements for the purpose of furnishing and mustering into the service an acceptable substitute in every case where one of the insured is drafted.

Experience has shown that persons can be asured against the perils of fire and disease apou a fixed calculation of risks. Are not mblic and individual interests subserved by innring against the contingency of being drafted? It is estimated that of the number liable to raft a certain proportion will be drafted. ded in undertaking to Insure against the incoming draft, and shall muster in acceptable the number on enrolment list.

Each man insured will be given, on payment fpremium of Insurance, a certificate which sha'l entitle him to exemption, and, in the event of his being drafted, we will furnish the sub-titute in his name and stead, and thereby procure from which are to be given him upon his returning sald certificate of premium to us.

To those whose business relations make it a great sacrifice to go as drafted men, and those situtes, the benefits to be derived from such inmance are plain and tangible. You are insured against the anxiety and per sinal luconvenience incident to one who from the wheel. From these harasslug cares aid auticipation you are relieved, as we will that you are conscripted, you attempt to pay an exorbitant price for a substitute, when men take advantage of your individual necesprivilege; and If poor, can you not better pay a moderate sum now than an exorbitant price for a substitute after the draft? our ability to perform what we propose, and of which we will furnish the most satisfactory evidence, we shall enter upon our undertaking. This proposition cannot fail to meet the wishe of hundreds in Louisville and Jefferson county for it insures an acceptable substitute to every drafted man who may take insurance of us.

WM KAYE, Mayor. WEDNESDAY, MARCH 22, 8 A. M.

On our first page this morning will be found an elaborate article from the pen of Hon. Ama a Walker on Peace, Prices, and Prospects. It is ably written, and will well repay perusal. It treats of a sniject in which the American People have a vital interest at this time, and no one should fail to read it.

On the 13th inst., Jefferson Davis sent aspecial message to the rebel Congress, in which he sets forth the present imperilled condition of the rebellion, and calls for certain legislative measures which he deems necessary to the extrication of his Government. He admits that Rich mond is more seriously endangered now than ever, but urges the continued display of fortitude under the trials which now beset the Confederacy. Or evening edition will contain the message in full.

Wood's THEATRE.-Frank Drew is drawing rowded houses at this Theatre. He is an excellent comedian, and if you see him once you will be sure to go a second time. He labors to please an andlence, and his efforts always meet with success, as he keeps everybody convulsed with laughter. His Camille is one of the greatest burlesques of the age, and nobody should fail to see him in the character. To-night he appears as Gerald Pepper In the White Horse Third night of the cerentric Comedian Mr. FRANK of the Peppers, and as Camille. The performance will conclude with the laughable farce of the Wldow's Vlctim.

NEW YORK, Warch 21. The panic in Wall street still eminues. There is some indication that it has reached the linex. At the morning board all the stacks in list were thrown largely on the market, ap-certly hem an argency to reduce them. The line was beeny threughout. Government cks were thrown on the market without retacks were thrown on the market without re-port to price, and suffered equal with the allers. The gold room has been the scene of he wildest excitement, and the flactuations were wild. The market opened heavy, and here was a further large tall, based on the re-ent that the fleet was hombarding Mobile, lowerd toon there was a steady upward ten-ture, and palees recovered. The report of the cleated Sherman before Gobisboro was the nuse of the rise. Petroleam stocks were tendy at the public board.
